

Diesel Emissions Conference & ARLA 32 Forum Brazil 2012

The Diesel Emissions Conference and ARLA 32 Forum in Brazil is the only meeting place for focussed discussion on meeting Euro V and beyond as well as future rules for off-highway applications. It is where expert industry speakers offer key insight into how the market will grow, where the opportunities will be and what challenges need to be overcome. It will also cover the potential of the ARLA 32 market in Brazil, and infrastructure developments.

The conference and forum attracted over 300 attendees in its first year and will continue to grow as Brazil's most important networking and learning platform, for all those looking to make the most of the huge potential offered by the growing demand for diesel emissions technology and expertise in Brazil.
