Key Conclusions for the Industry

With an impressive breadth of content and discussion from over 120 high-quality speakers, it is a challenge to distil the top messages for our industry, but certain messages, arguments and comments kept coming to the fore:

- Response to COVID-19: During the COVID-19 pandemic, LPG has been proven to be a resilient, essential, rapid-response fuel with a long-term role. The pandemic has pushed the energy transition into a more immediate light, and LPG has proven itself to be a necessary fuel that can play a positive role in supporting industry and communities.
- Advocate and Communicate: We must communicate and advocate with common, positive global messages across the board. There is no one energy solution and electrification of everything is not the answer. LPG has a long-term role to play in a just energy transition as an exceptional energy that offers acceptability, affordability and accessibility.
- Collaboration: Collaboration between industry and government remains critical to ensure correct policies are put in place to enable the growth of the industry.
- People at the centre of what we want to achieve: A clear focus on people and communities and the importance of nurturing motivated teams. Also, key is diversity and inclusion; the inclusion of women to give balance to the industry, and young talent to secure a bright future for the LPG community. Innovation within the LPG industry are key to attracting and retaining youthful or cross-sector talent into the industry. Within this of course comes safety and the promoting of good business and safety practices.
- Get Digital and Modernise: We must continue to connect the industry, modernise our image, and embrace the digital world. With new technologies and advancements such as renewable LPG, the industry is well poised to advance.
