

Thailand's Susco plans to modernize, expand fuel-station network, Bangkok Post reports

The company has plans to upgrade its 235 fuel distribution locations in Thailand during the next two years and in 2017 it will add a total of 15 completely new stations, the Bangkok Post report said.

The newspaper said it obtained the information directly from Susco's Managing Director Chairit Simaroj.

An email sent by PetrolPlaza to Susco to try to confirm the information did not obtain an immediate reply.